PEOPLE BOOK SEVENTY-THREE

RESIDENCE HALLS
CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY AT SAN JOSE
NINETEEN HUNDRED SEVENTY THREE, VOLUME II

SEVENTY THREE

People are what it's all about at San Jose State — people living, learning, and growing together, exploring new ways of life. For everyone it was a different experience as our lives crossed and we shared an assorted series of laughter, tears, triumphs, disasters, work, and play. Of course, no one could completely capture the whole story, but here we have portrayed the important things, the basic things — the people themselves. So now we leave it to you, that your own memories may be kept alive by faces and places that were important in your life at San Jose State in the academic year 1972-73.

TEEN ANGEL
LIVES!

It's one for the butch wax, two for the malt shop, three grease your hair back and four to bebop!

The kids got out their bobby socks, pleated skirts, rolled-up jeans, and school sweaters for a hop in the dining commons. The guys got out the grease and the chicks got out the make-up which they all mixed at the malt shop. There, one could buy his pony-tailed date anything from a banana split with a cola, to a tuti fruti. Teen idol James Dean starred in a fantastic thriller "Rebel Without a Cause."

Five contests were held to establish; 1) the best bopper, 2) the bubble gum champ, 3) "Mr. Trivia," 4) Teen Angel, and 5) Teen Queen. Back at the dance, Butch Wax and the Glass Packs were singing up such a storm as "Rock around the Clock" and "Tell Laura I Love Her."

This year, Housing Director Cordell Koland continued his policy of detached dancing, with the aid of certain members of his staff. In other words, to quote a certain celebrity from a bygone era, "It was real cool, man.!"

Basically it was in the spirit of difference that the inmates and sometime residents of House at Pooh Corner, known alternately as No Name Hall and very rarely as Allen Hall drew together. Populated by a variety of freaks, weirdos, wild ones, not so wild ones, and generally retarded ones, with a few erratic talented ones, thrown in for good measure; the Habitat generally resounds with the sounds of Hockey games, impromptu group showers, with screams, shouts, yells, and all other sounds of assorted revelry. Occupied occasionally by a group known only as the Only The Lonely Gang this phenomena has been known to lap over at times into other halls, always producing interesting if somewhat disturbing results. Let it suffice to say that this modest, unassuming domicile, whose meek and partially retiring residents, who can often be found in some of the more interesting positions, has accumulated for itself quite a reputation, always it can be said in a tasteful and quite refined manner. It is said that anything can and will happen if you wait long enough, with open eyes in the same place not forgetting what you're waiting for, if you're waiting in the first place, for something. To live in Allen Hall is to participate in the orgy of personal development which is continuously coming about within its red brick walls.

In conclusion Allen Hall is a place in which no one can undo, see it and die, one can do no more. On the other hand one would think nothing of the plastic weeds which grow in the lobby for such are the spirits of Allen Hall.

Transcending the mortal bounds of communal existence Markham means experiences. Lifestyle, even thought, vary from the mundane muddled masses elsewhere. Whether admitting to Squid-hood or no, a Markham Haller cannot successfully deny his heritage — Markham is more than a hall: it's an essence! A cosmic reality.

Moulder Hall, named in honor of Andrew J. Moulder (1827-1895), is truly a home away from home. People say of other dorms, "It's a nice place to visit, but . . .;" not so with Moulder. Most of the residents feel as much at home here as they would at home with their own families. The atmosphere here at Moulder is one of relaxation and togetherness. The people are friendly and there is always someone to talk to when you need help or just an informal bull session. The friends made at Moulder Hall are not those easily forgotten. They are friends who you'll go out of your way to visit even after everyone has moved out and away.

The activities here are varied and enjoyable. We have at least one or two a month, usually more. They range from parties to dances to weekend trips to the beach, the mountains, and points in between.

Moulder Hall consists of 91 men and 78 women, all of whom are kept pretty much under control by Ms Williams, the head resident. Despite the fact that she has been head resident for three years now, she has kept her sanity, and what's more, her friendliness and helpfulness are still as strong as ever. The rest of the staff reflects her warmth with their friendliness and prompt assistance to any problem, from a major catastrophe to a locked-out resident.

Moulder Hall can best be summed up in the words of one new resident, "Even if it's cloudy outside, the sun is always shining in Moulder Hall."

"How would you describe Hoover Hall?" This was the question that was asked of several residents. Beyond the fact that Hoover Hall is conveniently located and food is prepared for them there seems to be a definite split in the attitudes about Hoover Hall.

"The building itself is O.K., but the style of living reminds me of a zoo," stated one discontented resident. After a day of going to classes, having meals at the same time, the day ends for some residents by retreating back to their sterile environment and locking the door. If you are outside the ruling click of Hoover Hall, life can be very lonely and not exactly what one would expect to be very stimulating.

On the other hand Hoover Hall is, "Active. They go out and find things to do, that have brought various small groups together to form the undying and daring spirit of the Hoover Hall folk." These activities have included Casino Night, the Fifties Dance and the rec room tournaments. Even so they would like to see more people get involved.

Despite these factions of Hoover Hall residents it is agreed that in comparison to other dorms, Hoover Hall is a "friendly place". The main reason for this is Steve, our head resident. He is "always willing to lend a helping hand and manages to let everyone in the dorm have as much freedom in their individual lives as possible." Steve is the single person that has kept Hoover Hall somewhat united.

I am sure that we will all look back on our year at Royce Hall with fond but not necessarily sober memories. There were the activities of the "Royce Rowdies" that served to promote the mental health of the dorm as a whole (???). Then there was our football team that almost compiled a perfect season of losing. In addition, there were of course our dorm dances and barbeques.

On a more serious note it is our hope that dorm living has been a pleasurable and rewarding experience that has promoted the making of new and lasting friendships.

If there is one thing in life that I hate, it is hokey write-ups about dorms (or colleges, or worst of all, the army). But, if you want it to be, a dorm can be more than a big boarding house. Washburn has been for me. It's been new friends and foreign ideas, some from around the world, and some from only as far as Compton. It's been a lot of learning about myself, and for me, a new beginning. But mainly, it's been fun. I don't know about you, but I'm coming back next year. (And the cooking isn't that bad!)

Some people to remember (if you run out of things to do): Whacker, Pooper, Boozit, Chris Mc (twice), Mom (and Dad?), TALL Jeri, Dave "Plaster Caster" Tracewell, Chef Delbert, Jet Jockey, Jo (the morning sunshine girl), Jandandheidi, Tuna, Mark and Isaac (and the rest of the Compton Kids), Caitlin "are you still playing pool" Campbell, (may all your doorways be seven feet tall), the desk crew, Officer Terrence "Up against the wall" Bishop, Little Lin (comes equipped with Dan), Big Lynn and Ta-ta, Danille "who's the foxy new chick" Seitz, and of course, will anyone ever forget Russel?

Anybody got a Flako?

Fall 1972, Spring 1973...short and sweet, but encompassing so much. September brought over half a dorm of new people and new blood to West Hall. Some old dormies remained...passing on traditions established over the passing years: water-fights, R.F.'s, wine-tasting, sneaking in the occasional keg and parties and parties.

West Hall represented a micro-community of people thrown together with one common goal -- education. The diverse personalities and interests gathered under one roof drew the traditional definition of education into a new area for many West Hall residents, that of learning about people by living with them. You couldn't really help but learn about the people you lived with because of the close quarters. Hopefully, dorm living brought with it an awareness, a realization, that in an allegedly "faceless" society, people were still human beings and that you weren't the only goof-off in the world.

Fall 1972 was the time of the youth vote for the presidential elections... "Whoopie! Youth is voting! 'And a little child shall lead them!' Whoever said that didn't know nothing!! -- Archie Bunker. The dorm politicos rapped and worked and Nixon got what McGovern blew.

The International floor celebrated Oktoberfest, proving that the young generation can also boogie with a polka.

House IV pulled crowds from on and off-campus with their Haunted House: a delightful excursion into the passive realm of bloodied stumps, hanging beings, chatty corpses accompanied with a pleasant stroll a la hands and knees through beautifully enclosed surroundings.

A dire search for dominant personalities took place on 10 floor -- a philanthropic measure to award credit where credit was due through the auspices of an awards banquet.

Christmas time brought out Secret Angels and Secret Santas, not to mention some secret recipes of eggnog. It's just too bad that there were no secret remedies for the consequences of those secret recipes.

We had a cultural exchange with the Orient and England: the Hong Kong and the London Flu. Participation was not on a voluntary basis.

Powder-puff football brought out the frivolous females of 4. They had a winsome style, to say the least, but style don't give you the points.

Can you imagine what Dr. Freud would have to say about the 7th floor's addiction to mud football?

House I sponsored a progressive dinner for their people, after which a few people got progressively bombed.

All the West Hall "boss groovies" got "with it" and bopped at the 50's rock shop. Teen Angel was a gas, Butch Whacks rocked out...cracker jacks, colas and ice cream sodas helped to relax...it was the living end...

Casino Night brought out the best (winning) and the worst (losing) for everyone. The rattle of cards and rattle of dice could scarcely be heard because of the dull roar of activity, the anguished groans and cries of big losses, and the delighted screams and chatter of appreciative winners, not to mention a brief shoot-out.

Oganookie gave us all some foot-stompin', knee-slappin' and jest plain ole good times. The country bumpkins of the dorm hollered hog-calls and banged their crocks...and Oganookie returned.

Another year's gone and a year more of experiences gained. The staff of West Hall wish you the best for the rest of life.

Old friends, new friends, bunk beds, bicycles, card games, beer mugs, late night munchies, and early morning midterms. Together times and lonely times, a time of independence and a feeling of security.

A family, a commune, an unforgettable experience.

5th FLOOR

JOE WEST HALL, FIFTH FLOOR, such as it is:

This esteemed floor has been described by one young lady as a beaver colony — one dam thing after another. The girls complain about the boys and the boys, naturally enough, just sorta sit there and gripe.

We all love the food, we just have trouble trying to keep it from running around the plate.

Our floor is comprised of many varied talents, from great baseball players, outstanding skiers, and on down to the most proficient thumb-suckers and proboscis-pickers ever.

We even love Firbert, that famed turtle who flew from a waffle to the plants below, and survived.

(No, we're not insecure, we just don't study much!)

8th FLOOR

8th floor can only be described with one word — Unique! An international floor with no foreign students, a conglomeration of people of many ages and interests forming a community in which to live and share. The original concept of the 8th floor was that of varied individuals who would share cultures and ideas, ultimately creating understanding and a feeling of unity.

Activities were organized for that purpose and included: Mexican Independence Day, Octoberfest at Germania, camping at Big Basin, Thanksgiving Dinner, Italian night, Nordic skating, Christmas festivities, Pumpkin carolling and Halloween party, Israeli and Balkan folk-dancing, coed football, jogging, snow trip, floor and house parties and separate group functions. Although 8th floor did not necessarily conform to the original concept of an Interational floor, in the words of one floor member, "We may not be international, but we sure try together."

The people on ninth
are quite a group
Included are skiers,
skaters, card players
and those who parachute.

There are merry ones,
and quiet ones to be seen.
Those who talk,
those who dream.

But though we differ
one and all.
I'm sure we'll all remember

After a party

ELEVEN

Someone once referred to the 11th floor as the basement of the 12th floor penthouse. This "basement" has been many things to its residents this past year. ---Spooky graveyard complete with screeching corpses. The incredible Chamber of Horrors and a notorious maze. ---A battleground for water fights. ---A party place. ---Occasionally a serene study area. ---A garage for a Ford, but a fishbowl for a Praun? ---An avalanche of papers, strings, balloons, and vaseline during an occasional R.F. But always and most important of all, the 11th floor has been a place to make friends and a home-away-from-home for all of us.

Penthouse!

How about that Penthouse
Ain't it the tops?
Up on the 12th floor
Where the fun never stops.

Up to the water fights
Up to the view
Up to the shaving cream
Smeared through and through.

Look at that Penthouse
With the newspaper floor
And the purple spy peepholes
On everyone's door.

That high up there Penthouse
Bee-boppers delight
With the Haunted House creatures
Spreading Halloween fright.

Then the night before Christmas
When all through the house,
Were visions of Herb Schroeders
And the world getting soused.

Stringing the popcorn
Singing holiday glee
Secret Santas hiding
Round the 18 foot tree.

Up at that Penthouse
There are no studies.
Just impromptu dress up dinners
And watching soaps in our cruddies.

How about the Family
And singing Beatles to a racket?
Kegs in the suite tubs
Man, what a crack-up.

Stuffing our faces
Over dinner each night
Then groaning together
How nothing tastes right.

Treks to MacDonalds
For a midnight munchie or two
Picnics on weekends
And sharing the blues.

Laughing together and
Shedding some tears
How can we forget them,
The best of our years?

How about that Penthouse
What's it all about?
Waiting for the elevator
To get the hell out!

This year's People Book has tried to depict in pictures what this past year in the dorm was like. The book was put together by the dorm students and its contents were what the staff believed to be representative of the Residence Halls.

The staff would like to thank the Head Residents and Resident Advisors for their help.

Thanks should also go to Dennis King for without his help this book would not have been possible. Mr. President made sure that all points were covered and all possible views explored. Finally, thanks should also go to Bob Dottery in helping the editor stay up all night as well as helping him from getting an ulcer right before deadlines.
